Hint That Fact - Finding Board Will Avert Steel Strike

Neither Side To Approve Of Findings?

Truman Awaits the Group's Views

New York, Sept. 9—(AP)—The New York Post Home News said today there are "strong indications" that the steel fact-finding board's report to the president will avert a national steel strike.

But neither the steel industry nor the CIO steelworkers union will like the board's recommendations, Murray Kempton wrote for the newspaper in reviewing what he called an "apparently solid" version of the guarded report.

To Ask Raise?
On the main point—pay and benefits—Kempton said the board is likely to ask the steel companies to grant a 10-cents-an-hour "package," in contrast to the 30-cents-an-hour demanded by the union.

Only a small part of this would show up in wages, with most of the raise going for pensions and medical insurance, Kempton said.

The three board members, Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, Carroll R. Daugherty and David L. Cole, will give the report to President Truman tonight.

"There are bound to be elements in it that profoundly disappoint anyone on either side who hoped for a clear-cut victory," he wrote.

The steel strike, once postponed, is now set for Sept. 23 unless labor and industry agree.

Nathan Liebuff
The Post also said the board has apparently thrown out the claim of union economist Robert Nathan that the industry can break even while producing at only 30 per cent of its manufacturing capacity. Also reported out is the union claim that steel workers' wages have fallen behind other industrial wage groups.

When the president proposed a fact-finding board, many of the steel companies objected to it as a violation of free collective bargaining. They said its findings would be used to coerce the industry.

Although the board was empowered to make recommendations, these are not binding on either industry or union.

The hearings ended here 10 days ago after more than two weeks of testimony from both sides. The report itself is over 100 pages long.

She talked with him both during the morning and afternoon visiting periods.

'Little' Earl Shelton Shot From Ambush

HIT BY TEN BULLETS
Fairfield, Ill., Sept. 9—(AP)—Ten bullets, blazing from ambush wounded Little Earl Shelton early today in a repetition of the gun fighting that killed two of his uncles and wounded a third.

Little Earl is a 33-year-old nephew of Carl and Bernie Shelton, who were shot to death, and of Big Earl, who was critically wounded in past warfare.

The three elder Sheltons led a gang that terrorized southern Illinois, warring with the Charlie Birger gang, Machine guns, steel-plated cars, makeshift bombs and a plane were used in that feud of the 1920's over bootleg liquor, slot machines and, some legends say, a woman.

Fairfield, Ill., Sept. 9—(AP)—A barrage of bullets poured from ambush early today into "Little" Earl Shelton, 33-year-old nephew of the gang leaders who had terrorized southern Illinois for years. Police Chief Elmo Murgage said "Little" Earl was fired on as he drove up to the front of his home here shortly after midnight.

Murgage said he was patrolling the area and heard the salvo of several shots. All fired within a few seconds. He sped to the Shelton home where, he said, he found "Little" Earl in his house moaning and bleeding badly from four or five bullet wounds in the thigh and one in the head.

In Parked Car
Shelton was still conscious, the chief said, and related that the gunmen fired from a car which was parked across the street from the Shelton home when the victim drove up. Murgage said Shelton's wounds were from at least two calibers of bullets. He expressed belief at least one of the weapons was a machine gun because of the rapid succession of the shots he heard.

The victim was taken to a hospital at Evansville, Ind., where attendants described his condition as "only fair."

Shelton was taken to Evansville

Paid Penny too Much, Farmer Has 'Time' Repaying

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 9—(AP)—When farmer Chris Holl of Monee did some road work for Will county three years ago, they paid him a penny too much.

That knocked the county's books out of balance. State auditors had a time figuring it out, but finally traced the one cent overpayment to Holl. The county wanted to waive the matter, but state administrators ruled the penny must be repaid.

Holl didn't mind returning the penny, except that he had to. Travel 23 miles to the court house with the penny.

Get an order from the county clerk directing repayment. Go to the county treasurer and pay the penny to a deputy.

Return to the county clerk to have the order countersigned. Travel 23 miles back to his farm.

SEEING-EYE DOG POISONED—The poisoning of a valuable "seeing-eye" dog owned by Dr. Louis L. Weber, was reported to the Dixon police station last night and an investigation by Drs. Collins and Anderson, local veterinarians disclosed the presence of arsenic poisoning. Dr. Weber was out of the city yesterday and late in the afternoon the animal was disclosed to be acting strangely. When its condition became aggravated, the veterinarians were summoned.

Drs. Collins and Anderson stated to The Telegraph today that the dog appeared to be suffering from arsenic poisoning, which has caused the death of other dogs in the neighborhood during past weeks. It was thought that the dog may have picked up some morsel of meat or other food which had been left in the vicinity of its exercise pen during Dr. Weber's absence from the city. The dog, however, was reported to be recovering from the affects of the poison, but it will be several days before it will be able to serve its owner. It was stated.

Dr. Weber is totally blind and has used the dog for several months since coming to Dixon as a member of the staff at the Dr. S. Chandler Bend clinic to guide her in her travels about the city.

Farmer Had a Way With the Ladies--and Their Jewelry

Chicago, Sept. 9 (AP)—A North Carolina farmer with a way with the ladies was held without charge today after police said he told of swindling 18 women through marriage proposals.

One, Tucker said, occurred only this week when Vaughan met a young woman in a loop bar and

Cripps Admits Britain Must Support Self

Washington, Sept. 9—(AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps declared today that the "only satisfactory solution" for Britain's economic plight is to sell enough goods for dollars to become self-supporting.

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer made that statement in a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon.

Indicating British acceptance of American advice to streamline selling techniques, he said that "on the question of exports to dollar markets, I believe that there is a most urgent need for more intensive salesmanship."

Sir Stafford pictured the solution of his country's economic crisis as essential for the co-ordinated political and military strength of the west in its struggle with Communism.

He said that Secretary of State Acheson and British Foreign Minister Bevin have made "remarkable progress" toward building the western political and defense structure but added:

"All this progress will be in vain if we fail to provide a sound economic basis for these combined efforts of the free democracies."

The twin themes of Cripps' address were hard work for the British people in their struggle to live on their income and hope for success in the British-American-Canadian financial talks which opened here Wednesday.

These talks, Cripps reported, "have opened in an atmosphere of mutual determination to bring some more permanent solution so as to avoid these recurring crisis in the dollar-sterling relationship."

Out of the talks already have come indications of limited American help to Britain in meeting its current dollar crisis. Long-range aid, however, may be slow in developing. Congressional action likely will be required on several major proposals.

M-P's 7,200 Miles To Be Minus Trains

Industries in 11 States Will Be Hit

LATEST BULLETIN
St. Louis, Sept. 9—(AP)—Service on the Missouri Pacific railroad's vast system came to a virtual halt today, hours ahead of the threatened strike that will idle some 30,000 workers.

Only a few trains were still running — making for their terminals and a final stop.

Fires in most of the big freight locomotives already were out.

Both sides in the dispute were standing by, anxious for some word from Washington. What action, if any, they expect President Truman to take they wouldn't say.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Truman made last minute attempts today to avert a strike set for 3 p. m. on the 7,200 mile Missouri Pacific railroad.

However, all indications pointed to the scheduled walkout of 5,000 operating employees. The strike is expected to force the laying off of some 25,000 other workers and affect industries in more than 1,000 communities in 11 states served by the Missouri Pacific.

Mr. Truman, who also said he may ask for another 10-day truce to delay a steel strike scheduled next Wednesday, said he was making every effort to avert the MOPAC strike. He said the government had nearly exhausted nearly all its authority in the dispute.

The Missouri Pacific was ready to halt all operations. The four brotherhoods involved in the dispute went ahead with their strike plans.

Freight Stops
Freight service stopped yesterday. Early today an embargo was placed on passenger, mail and baggage service. However trains in operation at the strike deadline will finish their runs.

The chief issue in the dispute is the manner in which various operating rules should be interpreted. Wages and hours were not involved in the dispute.

Unions involved are the Locomotive Engineers, Railway Trainmen, Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the order of Railroad Conductors. The carrier, the nation's ninth largest, operates in Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Kan-

Terminal Pontiac, Dixon, installs new hydraulic press and are now equipped to do wheel straightening in their completely modern shop. They have purchased the latest Sealine Press, manufactured by the H. C. Schildmeier Co., Indianapolis, capable of exerting 60,000 lbs. pressure. This new piece of equipment is the latest and most accurate of its kind in the field today. It is a known fact that wheels on new cars are bent as much as $\frac{1}{2}$ inch which results in excessive tire wear and causes front end parts to wear rapidly. By correcting bent wheels and properly aligning front end suspension of present day automobiles, it is a proven fact that far greater satisfaction will be realized by car owners. Upswing in Employment Is Predicted

Washington Sept. 9—(AP)—A sharp upswing in employment is expected to be shown in the census bureau's August report on the labor force, due today.

Some government officials predicted that the number of jobs would, for the first time this year, reach a level close to 60,000,000.

They figure that unemployment, which was reported at 4,095,000 in July, probably will drop well below the 4,000,000 mark. A decrease would be in line with the usual seasonal trend.

A further drop in unemployment is expected for September, on which census figures will not be available until next month.

The normal trend of both unemployment is downward from August to September, as large numbers of younger workers and job seekers drop out of the labor force to return to school.

The August report was expected on Tuesday but was delayed from day to day. One commerce department official said it is "being checked and rechecked." He would not divulge the reason for the unusual delay.

Late yesterday the federal reserve board reported an optimistic sign. Business loans of member banks increased for the fourth successive week, after a seven-month slump.

Loans Increase
The volume of business and industrial loans in leading cities rose $21,000,000 the board announced, to a total of $12,963,000,000. This represents a gain of $127,000,000 since August 3, when the low point was reached.

In July, civilian employment rose to 59,720,000. This was not substantially greater than in May or June, and was nearly 2,000,000 below the peak attained in July of last year when 61,615,000 persons were gainfully employed.

A steady decline lasted through the rest of 1948 and up to February this year's low point was reached at 57,168,000. The trend since then has been generally upward but not to the record levels reached last year.

Johnson Aide Gets Rank of Brigadier

Washington, Sept. 9—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson today pinned the stars of a brigadier general on his assistant, Louis H. Renfrow.

The ceremony in Johnson's office with a crowd of officials and friends present followed senate confirmation yesterday of Renfrow's promotion from colonel to the temporary rank of brigadier general.

"You've done a good job and you rate these stars, so I'm happy to do this," Johnson said.

Renfrow, a native of Cairo, Ill., is a reserve officer on active duty. Renfrow formerly was a presidential military aide under Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan.

Two Years Ago Today, Italy Had Some Visitors -- YANKS!

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—Six years ago today, Italy was surprised by the greatest influx in its history. The nazi 16th panzer division was in position all guns firing.

A number of German visitors were already there. And they weren't surprised. They were on the beaches waiting.

The reaction that followed is known as the battle of Salerno. It is one of the real milestones of the second world war, marking the first joint British-American landing on the continent of Europe.

It opened a disheartening campaign that became a long bleeding wound for the troops who fought in this "forgotten war."

And the keynote was set at the moment of landing. American navy vessels had withstood their softening fire against land targets, hoping thereby the assault troops would catch the Germans unaware.

But an enemy reconnaissance plane sighted the allied convoys the day before. When the invasion today, Italy was surprised by the greatest influx in its history.

Mrs. John Bousum, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bousum and daughter of Rockford.

David Shaulis, Franklin Grove, spent Monday with his grandparents, while his parents visited relatives in Winnetka.

battery. That night German counter battery fire landed in our position and killed some men. The next night we bunked in an apple orchard. A German plane found us with flares and put a bomb in the middle of our orchard.

By the next day the assault was built.

Then the long march up the mountainous peninsula began. It was like a war between quaking ants on the backbone of a dinosaur.

Thousands of men became disillusioned for life about Italy's famous sunny climate. It rained and stormed, and high winds blew down hospital tents on the wounded. If it wasn't rocky underneath it was muddy.

And the army moved like a sluggish measuring worm. For weeks progress was in yards rather than miles. The Germans seemed to have a hill for every soldier, and it took a million dollars worth of artillery—and some blood—to take each hill.

Naples fell, and its hollow-eyed people held out their hands for food, crying "Mangare! Mangare!" and "Pane! Pane!" the water mains were blown the streets ankle deep in filth. In hospitals there were no bandages, and the sick died on mattresses laid in rows along the candlelit floors.

Then came the siege of Cassino.

Anzio and the breakthrough to Rome.

But the next day a vast force hit the beaches of Normandy, and the eyes of the world turned to France, the portal that led to Germany.

For the rest of the war the troops in Italy wore their hearts out against the endless mountains on that forgotten front. And today they remember the campaign with little pleasure.

For when peace came the Germans still hadn't run out of mountains.

GOP's Farm Program Is Not 'Phony'

Washington, Sept. 9—(AP)—Republicans promised today that their farm program, now being packaged in Washington on red tape and handed to the farmers on a "papa knows best" basis.

The promise was contained in a national committee announcement that Rep. Clifford Hope of Kansas will deliver the keynote address at the Republican farm conference in St. Louis, Sept. 12-14.

Hope is the No. 1 Republican on house agriculture committee and its former chairman.

He and fellow Republicans on the house and senate agriculture committees, together with members of the farm committee of the GOP, will hold hearings at Sioux City on farm problems.

"It is hoped," said the announcement, "that the information thus obtained will form the basis for a legislative program which will receive the support of Republican senators and representatives in congress. It is realized that any such program must have the endorsement and support of a majority of the farmers themselves. It must not be a program neatly packaged and wrapped up in red tape in Washington to be presented to the farmer with the admonition that 'papa knows best'."

Whites in Threats to Negro Neighbors

Washington, Sept. 9—(AP)—White neighbors doused a blazing wooden cross planted in the yard of a negro family early today.

This was reported by firemen called to the home of Ralph Sneed, a navy department mail clerk.

A few moments later the home was pelted with stones. Several windows were broken. A police patrol was set up in the area.

Police and firemen blamed "juvenile delinquents" for setting up the cross and stoning the house. They said the Sneeds, who recently moved into the neighborhood, were the only negro residents in the block. The house is about two miles north-east of the capital.

Voice of the People

ON LIQUOR ADVERTISING

Franklin Grove, Ill.
Sept. 7, 1949

Dixon Telegraph

Dear Sirs: Most people are interested in their daily county paper and want it to be the best copy possible.

When the Telegraph's new editor took over we were interested to see if there would be any changes.

We appreciate seeing some things published and brought before the public that had not been printed before.

We notice there is much drunken driving being done and that it is published, because we know it is a fact, many accidents and deaths have occurred, due to drinking drivers.

When we see all the liquor advertising you are printing in your paper, we do not wonder at the excessive drinking.

Whatever your remuneration for all those liquor advertisements, it is not worth the sorrow, distress and misery and death it causes in so many homes.

We ask you to please help to rid our county and country of these things rather than to promote them.

Think of the youth.

We very much dislike the liquor ads in the Telegraph.

Very Sincerely
Women's Christian Temperance Union.
Franklin Grove, Ill.

(Editor's Note: The Dixon Evening Telegraph has not and does not accept 'Liquor Advertising' as stated in the above letter. The publishers of this newspaper have turned down thousands upon thousands of dollars of liquor advertising in a single year.)

HOW TO PLAY CANASTA: 10

Canasta Is Like a Hurdle Race

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

This article gives a few pointers on Canasta. Canasta is like an obstacle race. To reach the finish line, you must get past certain fixed hurdles on the course; to win, you must make better time than your competitors. You are likely to fall by the wayside if you fail to keep watch on both the obstacles and the competitors.

The fixed hurdles are:

- (a) Making the initial meld;
- (b) Getting the pack;
- (c) Completing one or more Canastas;
- (d) Getting rid of the last card.

Sometimes—with an assist from two or three—you can hurdle in one jump. You may get the pack in making your initial meld; you may go out with a concealed hand, encompassing (a), (c), and (d) at once.

Naturally, your chances of winning the race, or making a big profit, are greatly increased by any such telescoping of the course. But, most of the time, you have to take the hurdles one by one. You have to be prepared to deal separately with the special difficulties thrown up around each by the rules of the game.

At the same time, you want to outdistance another partnership, or other players. To some extent, you can enhance the difficulties for them. It is as though—to keep up the analogy—you were allowed to push boulders in their path. But in so doing you slow yourself up too, and on net you may turn out to be the loser.

Getting the pack. All experience goes to show that the paramount object is TO GET THE PACK.

This statement may sound strange. Legally, to go out you have to make an initial meld, complete at least one Canasta, and get rid of your last card—the only hurdle you can skip is getting the pack. Yet this is the one you most want to conquer.

The reason is not far to seek. If you never get the pack, your chances of making Canastas and going out are slight, and the chance that your opponents will roll up a huge score against you is extreme.

TOMORROW: Pointers on getting the pack.

★ IN HOLLYWOOD ★

Vaudeville Back on Coast; Nostalgia Is 'Hip-Deep'

Hollywood — (NEA) — Vaudeville just returned to the land of the movies. I guess that makes vaudeville's comeback official. It's now flourishing from New York to Los Angeles.

Some people credit Ken Murray with bringing vaudeville back to movieland in his long-running show, "Blackout." But Ken's acts were the same, week after week, and the show was on a one-a-day basis.

The Orpheum was the home of vaudeville in southern California during its golden era but movies and pop music took over the Orpheum just like they took over all the other vaudeville houses of America.

But now vaudeville is back at the Orpheum—and the nostalgia is hip deep.

There will be a weekly change of eight vaudeville acts plus a first-run movie. The movie will be there because Hollywood hasn't given up yet.

A good many Hollywood stars passed through the wings of the Orpheum stage on their way to greater stardom.

Frank Sinatra sang there as one-quarter of the "Hoboken Quartet" in one of the much-maligned Major Bowes amateur units.

There was a singer named Frances Gumm who became Judy Garland and Edgar Bergen with a dummy that then had no name and Jack Benny with a fiddle before he learned "Love in Bloom" and Bill Demarest who did nip-ups and a cello solo at the same time. Maybe Bill could do better trying to catch a marlin swordfish if he'd seen a real one.

ONE FOR THE STETSON

And there was the late Tom Mix at every opening night. Mix always bought two seats—one for himself and one for his giant Stetson. Andy Hervey, who was the Orpheum's press agent at the time remembers:

"Nobody ever heard the hat laugh but it always came along anyway."

Andy also remembers that the great Sara Bernhardt always insisted on paying off the entire cast of her act before each performance and that Eddie Leonard never sang "Ida" until the audience insisted to the extent he thought they should.

They say television is responsible for vaudeville's comeback. Maybe so. Television, at the moment, is vaudeville. Maybe they'll have to rename vaudeville as live television.

Sherrill C. Corwin is the man behind the return of vaudeville to the land of the movies. He's the general manager of the Orpheum and has been for 13 years. Actually he's been nursing vaudeville along with an occasional four-a-day for the last 13 years.

But now he's doing it up right, reminiscent of the old Orpheum's gaslight era when Lillian Russell, the Four Cohans, Modjeska and Richard Mansfield shared the billing.

Like all of vaudeville's old members, Corwin likes to remember the story he likes to remember best is this one:

There's an old unwritten law in vaudeville that whoever first rehearses a number establishes priority to its use in any given show. One day a singer named Hazel Dawn was headlining the Orpheum show and rehearsing a number, "Beseme Mucho."

AFTER HIS RIGHTS

Later in the day, the drummer in the Orpheum's pit orchestra, who was also an occasional vocalist, went to Corwin's office and announced that he had been in earlier that morning and rehearsed "Beseme Mucho."

He claimed the right to prevent Hazel from singing the number in the show.

"It's impossible," said Corwin. "Tradition or no tradition, law or no law, Miss Dawn is the star of this show and if she wants to sing 'Beseme Mucho,' or anything else, it's hers and no drummer is going to stop her."

"A spunky little drummer said: 'Mr. Corwin, I can sing that song just as well as she can, or better, and if I don't get to sing it, I quit.'"

Corwin said: "Okay, you quit."

The drummer said: "I quit."

Corwin said: "Start walking." The drummer started walking and he didn't stop walking until he walked into the hearts of America with a famous recording of "Beseme Mucho." The drummer's name, of course, was Andy Russell.

I had the pleasure recently of meeting the attractive June Williams, who is now Mrs. Fred Kaplan. She was a dancer and for two years was with Warner Brothers in California, and also at Earl Carroll's Club. Then she came to New York and appeared at the Copacabana. Her next engagement took her to the Metropolitan Inn in Florida, where she met Fred, and shortly afterwards they were married.

Kaplan is an attorney in New York and is perhaps one of the most colorful bridge players in the country. His control at the bridge table does not always make the greatest number of friends for him; nevertheless you can always expect a lot of action when you kibitz Kaplan.

Recently he was playing in a bridge game and his wife was one of his kibitzers. Today's hand was the last one of the session. After winning the opening lead, the dealer of spades with the king, Kaplan thought for some time. What play would you make at this point? Kaplan's play was the queen of clubs. One of the best players in the country, sitting West, did not cover with the king. Now there was no way to prevent him from making his contract.

Kaplan has been teaching his wife how to play bridge and when this hand was over he turned to her and said, "Darling, if you always make three no trump on a hand like this, you will never have to make eyes at me to have me love you."

Conneaut, O., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Union workers at the Walter A. Goldsmith Co. have decided to accept a five cents hourly wage cut. This was announced today by the company's local of the International Ladies Garment Workers (AFL). About 77 employees, nearly all women, work at Goldsmith's.

A spokesman for the union said the choice was made to allow the firm to compete with other garment makers in the hope of insuring steadier employment.

By Westbrook Pegler

He writes of "rich" individuals who are pro-Communist.

(Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

New York, Sept. 9.—There are many rich individuals in the United States, most of them in New York although others are scattered in Chicago, Los Angeles, Boston and Washington, who are persistently pro-Communist but never have joined the Communist party. We have to make our judgments from the evidence of their associations, donations and statements. Over a term of time sufficient to yield samples of their preferences we get convincing evidence that they sympathize with the communists.

Most of the women are old cynics who have tried just about everything for a bang in life and, in their ageing years, apparently have decided to get hunk with the human race for their own inability to live up to the conventions of decency. Without an exception that I can remember, the females inherited their wealth.

Some Self-Made

Some of the males got theirs by inheritance, but many of them are self-made. Among these latter I observe a common characteristic. They have money to burn but they are not personally generous. They have tried everything—country places, Palm Beach, Palm Springs, foundations named after themselves, press-agents to publicize them as wits and philosophical pundits, and sages of great humanity. But the counterfeit deceives nobody so they wind up straining their constitutional rights to the very limit promoting ulterior projects. Attack such a one and he will cry "Freedom of speech!"

It is not as though they had tried to crash the 400 and had been snubbed, because there is no society. Anybody with money can command the attendance of the pick of the town, such as it is, for a big drinking at a country place or expensive restaurant. Washington "society" is absurd. They seem not to know what it is that they yearn for and can't quite achieve. They marry casually and divorce easily and some of them will freely discuss their intimate problems like a farmer discussing weeds. This inferiority has hurt more of us than these individuals themselves.

The Hollywood trash do not cut an important figure in this element because their social and political manners are sheer affection. Not one of them has the intelligence to stand down a high-school editor in sensible argument. They certainly could have cut no figure as Republicans or mere conventional Democrats so they ran with the Communists knowing that the Communists would use them for publicity, which they love, and represent them as enlightened artists. This is a freak on the very face of it because artists are notoriously silly, emotional and ignorant of everything except their own little tricks, which they learn like monkeys, love-birds and land-scaped poodles. They are notorious for their lack of loyalty, too, which has given a spurious virtue to the cliché that art knows no patriotism and several variations of the same plea. Art may be international, but that is no excuse for a dancer to say that he has no country unless he is game enough to be taken at his word and deprived of the privileges of American citizenship.

A woman in New York whose family used to be rich has been worried and pretty sore, too, over the carryings-on of some of her relatives. The founders of the fortune really had class. They served as public officers, wrote a little and, like the highly predatory but undeniably capable delanos, grabbed all the money they could get their hands on. The fortune has waned for various reasons, including taxes and the increase in the number of heirs, until now the last heirs are genteel bums. They have enough money to keep them out of vulgar toil but not enough to live as millionaires and there isn't enough will see.

Don't Need Expert Advice To Rear Children Properly

Buck up parents. It looks as though you can come out of this corner pretty soon. Take that dunce cap off your head, look your own child squarely in the eye and say: "Mama (or Papa, the case may be) knows best."

I've come across any number of quotes lately from leading authorities on child guidance that indicate the era of assuming that parents know less than anybody else about bringing up their own children is about to end.

This best summary so far of this new, tolerant attitude toward parents is an article in the Woman's Home Companion for September, "Let's Stop Blaming the Parents."

Says one authority quoted in the article: "We have broken parents' confidence in their own adequacy. We must help them realize that they, after all, are the experts."

They've broken our confidence, all right. And done such a thorough job of it that it may take them some time to rebuild it to ability in the half-dozen survivors and their current wives and husbands to earn a bare subsistence. They have no self-respect, no dignity, and only people who will accept them the attention which they crave are a nest of trash, white and colored, musicians and literary tramps, who cut up rough in apartments which the mildewed aristocrats reside in.

My friend thinks they are expecting a revolution and are fixing to get passports through the barricades. I stick to the belief that they are just the rotten remnants of a society that went to decay. I don't believe they are capable of thinking on a revolution. I remember that several apostates who came over from Communism said that with most of the young so-called intelligentsia the only motive is an excuse to live the dirty life.

I don't believe there has been any exaggeration of the evil intent and power of rich men with a sense of bitter inferiority and envy who have been pouring money into politics and propaganda. Picking a key pro-Communist candidate here and there and subsidizing phony scholarship and scientific awards in philanthropic guise. It is dangerous that a soulless corporation should apply money-power to elections it is worse that a rich man—thorpe hating the United States because all he could achieve was wealth and despising the intelligence of the people, should do the same. The corporation will promote substantial, old-line American stuff and candidates which you can oppose openly. But these sneaks go in for confusions and in the guise of education. Furthermore, they claim tax exemption either as institutional advertising or foundation activities and the people pay for their own infection.

They do not want entire Communism. They love their money too well, the power it gives them and the false respect of the toadies who flock to their banquets and the tables where they hold forth in restaurants. Therefore, there is no temptation to call them Communists. They wish you would so that they could easily prove the contrary. But notice their tendency toward all the immorals which are the emblems of Communism. Note throughout their work, wrought solely by the power of money, money, money and the consistent absence of any word for the homely virtues and of the anti-Communist side in any question of religion. You will see.

Mass Blood Tests Would Aid Venereal Disease End

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Nearly everyone knows that a test can be made of the blood which will show whether or not a person is infected with syphilis. With the aid of this test, extensive campaigns have been made against syphilis because this disease could be eliminated altogether if all cases were discovered and made non-infectious early.

Tests made on large groups of the population in this country have shown that from about one person in a thousand to five persons in a hundred have this disease. The principal way by which the disease can be wiped out is by testing all of those who are infected and to make them non-infectious as soon as possible.

The tests are made by taking a small sample of blood from a person and testing it for a certain substance. This substance is called a "reactant" and it is found in the blood of persons who have the disease.

Required Before Marriage
This blood test is also required in most states now before marriage. Premarital tests are particularly important because they help to prevent the transmission of the disease to an unaffected spouse and also check the possible development of the disease in children.

There is no doubt that these mass blood tests on large groups of the population uncover cases of syphilis which might have been unrecognized for years. Also this serves to cut down the number of cases of the disease which could serve as a source of infection for others.

Here is a problem about which medical science knows the answers. The end of this scourge which has afflicted mankind since the middle ages will be a major triumph. It should not be postponed too long.

Note: Dr. Jordan is unable to answer individual questions from readers. However, each day he will answer one of the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Argentina May Go Off Gold Standard

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Sept. 9.—(AP)—President Juan D. Peron sent a bill to congress yesterday which would take Argentina's currency off the gold standard. Present laws call for the government to maintain a gold reserve equal to 25 per cent of the pesos in circulation.

The newly born oyster or larvae is so small it can barely be seen by the naked human eye.

Series E Bonds Are Popular in Illinois

Chicago, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Purchase of series E government savings bonds in Illinois this year are 4.53 per cent above the same period in 1948.

Arnold J. Rauen, director of the U. S. Treasury savings bond division for Illinois, said yesterday that 1949 purchases totaled $245,536,000, an increase of $10,636,000 over last year.

Suits Filed In Deaths by Mill's Fumes

Pittsburgh, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The families of 10 persons who died during a smog at Donora, Pa., last October have filed suit for $556,000 against the American Steel and Wire Co.

The suits, filed in federal court yesterday by Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, charged the U. S. Steel Corp. subsidiary with "wilful neglect" in permitting dangerous fumes to hang over the nearby milltown for the five-day period in which a total of 22 persons died.

Margiotti said additional suits for $1,487,950 will be filed on behalf of 121 persons who claimed injury to their health. The suits filed yesterday seek treble damages.

Hundreds were made ill and more than a score of elderly asthmatic and heart sufferers died from Oct. 25 to Oct. 30, 1948, as a choking combination of smoke and fog blanketed the Monongahela river town.

A report on a survey made by the U. S. Public Health Service has not yet been released. The survey was made by a team of investigators who went to Donora after the disaster and attempted to duplicate industrial conditions prevalent during the smog period.

TRIBE'S PENNANT HOPES DIMMED BY TIGERS

Red Rolfe's Detroit Club Deals Out Kayo

Red Rolfe's Detroit Tigers, hot-test club in baseball with a steaming 16-out-of-18 fever, today seemed to have delivered the kayo wallop to the World Champion Cleveland Indians.

The Tribe still has a mathematical chance at the American league pennant. So do the Tigers, but it's only a fleeting hope—one that would require a minor miracle to come true.

Detroit vaulted into a near tie with Cleveland for third place by sweeping a day-night double-header yesterday on the pitching of Hal Newhouser and Ted Gray. Both are six games behind the idle New York Yankees, but the Indians hold third by an .002 margin.

Despite the Tigers' sizzling drive and their eight-game win streak, the schedule is all against them. They are running out of games too fast to be a real threat. With only 16 games to play, 13 on the road, they trail the Yanks by 10 games on the all-important losing side of the ledger.

Cleveland's situation is almost as desperate. They play only three of 20 at home and trail New York by eight games on that losing side.

Rain washed out the New York-Boston game, turning the big series into a two-game set. The worst the Yanks can get is a split. Every day their 2½ game lead looks more comfortable.

If the Yanks can take a deep breath, there is no such chance in the National. The St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers are separated by a single game.

Harry Brecheen gave the Cardinals cause a boost last night with a three-hit, 8-0, shutout of the Chicago Cubs.

Brooklyn staggered home ahead of New York, 12-7, in a 3-hour-20 minute marathon that was delayed 35 minutes by rain in the first inning. Twenty-two walks, only one short of the league record, were handed out in the wild affair.

Reliever Carl Erskine, following Rex Barney to the hill, earned his sixth straight win since returning from Fort Worth, but needed help from Erv Fallica to get home.

Russ Meyer turned back Boston with one hit as the Phillies dumped the Braves for their ninth straight loss, 3-1. The one hit was a double by Connie Ryan in the first inning, scoring Sibby Sisti who walked.

Cincinnati pushed over three runs in the ninth to give Herm Wehmeier a 9-7 decision over Pittsburgh's Vic Lombardi. A homer by Danny Litwiler started the winning rally.

Newhouser gave Cleveland only one hit and faced but 28 batters in Detroit's afternoon 10-0 romp over Cleveland. Gray followed up Newhouser's fine job with a four-hitter at night to trim the Tribe's Bobby Feller, 4-1. Feller hit a homer, but it wasn't enough to save him from his 11th loss.

The Philadelphia Athletics pulled out of a six-game losing tailspin to lefthand the Washington Senators into a double loss, 9-1 and 8-4, in a twilight-night doubleheader. Alex Kellner grabbed win No. 17 in the twilight grab at the expense of Rookie Jim Pearce, up from Charlotte. Lou Brisse breezed home in the second.

Bob Kuzava stopped the St. Louis Browns with five hits in pitching Chicago to a 3-1 victory. Ned Graves was the loser.

Six Teams in New Semi-pro Grid Loop

Warriors Play Opener at Mt. Morris Sunday

A six-team semi-pro football conference composed of teams in Northern Illinois and Wisconsin, but yet so young that it hasn't been named, will get under way Sunday.

The new loop is made up of Rockford, Belvidere, Woodstock, Palatine, Racine and Byron.

Byron's entry, to be known as the Blackhawk Warriors, will field a lineup studded with Oregon, Byron, Mt. Morris and Freeport high school and college stars.

Adopting Mt. Morris for its home field, the Warriors will meet Racine in their home opener Sunday. Game time is 2:30 p. m. Harry Taubot, of Byron, is coaching the Warriors.

The Byron team has scheduled several Sunday night games at Mt. Morris, it has been revealed.

Heavy Bout To 'Frisco

San Francisco, Sept. 9—(AP)—This city's first heavyweight championship fight in 45 years was in the making today. Terms were agreed upon, but contracts were yet to be signed by Ezzard Charles, NBA titleholder, and Pat Valentine, local 185-pounder who holds the California state crown.

Charles, through the International Boxing club which holds his promotional rights, yesterday agreed to defend his title in a 15-round match Oct. 14 in the huge San Francisco Cow Palace. Terms include a $50,000 guarantee or 35 percent of the gate. Jim Norris, president of the IBC, telephoned from New York the terms were satisfactory.

The bout will be sponsored by William P. Kyne, operating head of Bay Meadows race track. The last heavyweight event in this city saw James J. Jeffries knock out Challenger Jack Monroe, Aug. 25, 1904.

Valentino has been inactive since outslugging Turkey Thompson of Los Angeles in 15 rounds Dec. 20. Then he underwent a minor operation.

The 29-year-old challenger fought two 10-round draws with Joey Maxim last year at San Francisco. He has been stopped twice, by Fritz Fitzpatrick in 1947 and by Turkey Thompson in 1942.

Pirate Hurler Has Surgery

Pittsburgh, Sept. 9—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates' Ernie Bonham was reported in satisfactory condition today after undergoing a serious operation.

The 36-year-old hurler who came to Pittsburgh from the New York Yankees in 1947 was operated on yesterday.

"Originally we planned to remove Bonham's appendix," said his surgeon, "but we found Ernie needed a more surgical attention and the operation required three hours."

"It was a serious operation but Dr. Ernie has responded well and we consider his condition satisfactory."

Ashton High Cops Softball Opener

Ashton—(Special)—Ashton high school opened its fall softball season with a 6-2 victory over Franklin Grove high yesterday.

Franklin caught the winner 6 to 4. Krug and Hays hurled for the Aces opposing Franklin's McMullen.

Ashton opens R. 72 conference play next Tuesday.

Crate Derby at Ashton Saturday

Ashton—(Special)—Nine entries will vie for Ashton's "Crate Derby" crown here Saturday night when the finals are run off in the business district.

The event will begin at 6:30 p. m. This event is a climax of a you now, 432, with a very something or other last game of 100, net feature.

New York—(NEA)—There is no question but that 17-year-old Shirley May France should have been yanked out of the English Channel.

The plucky Somerset, Mass., miss was going the hard way. The price was against.

But Shirley May's adventure further illustrates that there is a time when the parent's place is in the home. That is when the offspring is in severe competition.

Shirley May started the swim against the advice of her father. Speaking about the end, the little lady wrote, "Dad was so excited he forgot his shoes. He stood barefoot on the deck of the pilot boat and looked me over."

Sentiment and parental advice at close range have hampered the careers of many athletes, perhaps aided some, but the choice has been difficult.

Athletes at times require Spartan courage, expose youths to real physical punishment under trying conditions which make them readily susceptible to injury.

It is the ability to take this punishment, rise above it in the face of defeat that is the hallmark of a true champion. This is doubly so in the strenuous body contact sports such as boxing, football, hockey—and Channel swimming.

It also goes in track and field, especially in distance racing.

The task of says a college football coach—trying to treat his own youngster impartially is much tougher than that of pleasing the star halfback of 1909 who has a boy on the varsity.

No parent in position to call a halt could be blamed for throwing in the towel if his son was being badly battered in the prize ring.

Yet the trained handler and the physician knows that in most cases the match can continue without bodily harm or the risk of permanent injury.

I always believed that Young Strubling should have been heavyweight champion.

The personable Georgian had it all, speed of hands and feet, ring savvy and the old sockeroo. From bantam to heavy, he had 259 professional fights in 13 years—from 1921 through '33.

He whipped the seasoned and accomplished Mike McGuire when he was 18 and again at 20.

He flew an airplane upside down, landed in uncharted fields. He was killed riding a motorcycle at break-neck speed.

Young Strubling was the greatest sucker licker I ever saw, but in the more important matches was sorely handicapped by his parents—Ma and Pa—in his corner.

When things were going well, they let him go, or perhaps it is

Dukes Battle For Starting Jobs in Opener

A tussle for positions—a good, healthy sign in Coach Sam Owen's estimation—is on at the Dixon high school stadium.

With the game with Lyons high of Clinton, Ia., only a week away, Duke linemen and backs are engaging in a spirited fight for spots in that starting lineup which will trot out for the home opener.

Thus it is indicated that Coach Owens may be almost permitted to use a platoon system if he chooses. That's how deep the candidates are at the moment. It also means that some of last year's regulars may be forced to the limit to hold on to choice starting berths.

In a coach's estimation, that sort of competition always brings out the best in a boy.

Last night's workout was on the light order with the varsity squad getting a minimum of contact work and a lot of dummy scrimmaging. It was, however, a breather for tonight's heavy going, Coach Owens let be known.

After Tuesday's "bad" performance, the Dukes turned up Wednesday with scrimmage which even "Sad Sam" admitted was a pleasure to watch. The backs whirled through the holes in fine order, scoring a dozen touchdowns on long break-away runs. The line charged well and the dull early-week picture generally brightened.

Despite the heavy work, the varsity is in fair physical condition. A bruised thigh muscle kept Floyd Acker, quarterback, from the heavy work. Don Bennett, junior wingback, was kept out of scrimmage because of a pulled leg muscle, and Don Sproul, letterman end, was laid low with a flu germ. Sproul is expected to be out several days.

But on occasions when Strubling was called upon to put out that something extra, all he heard from Ma and Pa was "Be careful, W. L., be careful."

Several times a group of us pleaded with Pa Strubling to put a trained second in his talented son's corner, and give him his head.

Pa Strubling finally acquiesced when Strubling fought Max Schmeling for the title in Cleveland. Nate Lewis of Chicago was selected, but there still was Ma and Pa, saying "Be careful, W. L., be careful," every time the German pressed.

Lewis did his best to bring out all Strubling's superlative talent, put the added fire into him, but it was "Be careful, W. L., be careful," until George Blake stopped it in the 15th round.

In violent competition, the decision should be left to a competent outsider, certainly not to a fond parent.

MIDGET RACER CRASHES

Detroit, Sept. 9—(AP)—Mel Hansen, 38-year-old veteran Los Angeles auto racer, was critically injured last night when he smashed up his car in a midge race.

At Holy Cross hospital early today Hansen's condition was described as "very critical" and Dr. Donald R. Simmons, neuro-surgeon, said the racer's spinal cord was severed.

Hansen, a native of Redfield, S. D., has been driving since 1930. He is a veteran of the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

ALEMITE SETS RECORD

Indianapolis, Sept. 9—(AP)—A new record for the Grand Circuit this season and for the Indiana state fair track was set by Alemite yesterday as he paced to victory in the Big Five stake in 1:58 4-5.

Del Cameron rained the little brown horse to the mile record in the second heat after winning the first in 1:59 3-5. Lorraine was right at the winner's heels both times.

Jeff Heath is making a fine comeback with the Boston Braves. He broke his ankle the last week of the 1948 season and missed the World Series.

Three night games are listed for Syracuse's football team this fall. They are home games with Boston University, Lafayette and Temple.

Twenty-eight lettermen will be back for the North Carolina State College football team this fall.

House of David At Peru Monday

Peru—The famous House of David appears in Peru Monday night, Sept. 12, to meet the Merchants in a contest at Washington park at 8 o'clock.

This will mark the first time the Davids have been here in some years. With the bearded brigade are two veterans, 53-year old "Doc" Tally, who occasionally does a relief pitching job, and George Anderson, the manager.

As an added feature the Davids will stage their celebrated "pepper game."

COUGHLIN'S CORNER

By CLIFF

WE JOINED 150 OTHER bright and shining faces at the Dixon Church Softball league dinner at the Loveland building last night. It was a fried chicken deal served up beautifully by the Upstream class of the Christian church. So splendid was the food that we're afraid we went downstream with more than our usual capacity.

ACTUALLY IT WAS difficult to determine just who won the first place trophy if you didn't have a scorecard. The teams that lost took so many bows and compliments for serving as the "victims" that we were afraid that Dave Reigle of the Grace-Dixon team was going to return the trophy.

WE SAT BETWEEN Mr. and Mrs. Winston McReynolds at the speaker's table. "Wint" was the toastmaster—and a good one. He fumbled once and got "shhd" by his wife. "Wint" said that he was "grateful to be able to announce that Jimmy Quinn was not present for his cornet solo." His wife giggled behind her hand and whispered that he should have said "sorry." "Wint" said, "Huh?" then caught on and excused himself. Of course he meant sorry!

WHEN IT WAS FIRST learned that Jimmy wouldn't be there with his cornet, "Wint" tried to corner us for a talk. We begged off. Then "Wint" roped in the Rev. P. O. Bailey of the Grace-Evangelical-U. B. church without any advance notice. Pastor Bailey came through like a champ although he made as if he didn't have a thing prepared. Any time you catch a preacher without something to say, YOU'RE a champ!

WE MET THE REV. C. B. Fike, of the Church of the Brethren. Rev. Fike is from Freeport. We mentioned that his son, Elbert (We call him Al), was quite a tennis player. Al went to the finals of the Junior singles division yesterday with Dave Livingston only to lose a tough final match 7-9, 6-2, 6-2. Al probably doesn't know how close he came to be called Delbert.

WELL, ANYWAY, the Rev. Fike wrapped up the evening with a nice little talk entitled "Playing the Game" which was quite suitable for the occasion.

BILL NORDSTROM, one of the workhorses of the league, preceded Rev. Fike on the program with a honey of a pantomime. He mimicked a guy watching a movie. Then he followed with a dandy short one entitled "Napoleon Saying Goodbye to His Grandmother."

IF THERE'S ONE THING we admire about the Dixon Softball league, it's the fact that it never clamors for publicity. The teams play their games all season long and seem to have just as much fun. In fact they didn't even ask us to write anything about their banquet. They just said come over and eat with us.

A FITTING CLIMAX for the evening was the presentation of a check for $181 to the Rotary club's lighted softball field fund. The churches raised that through a special collection. Harry Kerz, past president of Rotary, and one of the founders of the organization locally, was present to accept it.

The State Prep Football Scene Is Bright—in Spots

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 9—(AP)—Unless most observers miss their guess, there'll be a lively scrap for the 1949 football title in the Northwest high school conference—one of the state's toughest.

Moline's Maroons, the defending champions, will be hard to dislodge. But not a team in the circuit looks like a pushover, with Galesburg and Rock Island heralded as the strongest challengers.

Coach Sam Drake has five hold-over regulars from the 1948 Moline eleven that flattened all Illinois opposition and bowed only to a classy Davenport, Ia., club.

"Prospects for a good season are bright," says Drake. "I expect a high scoring outfit."

Of one of his returning veterans, Austin Duke, 170-pound halfback, Drake adds: "Barring injuries, this boy will be another Buddy Young. And don't forget this prediction."

Galesburg has four regulars and several subs back from the club that dropped its opener a year ago to Moline and then racked up eight straight victories. Fullback Howard Keene, rugged 197-pounder who shone both on attack and defense, will be at his old post.

Coach Dave Adams has adopted a philosophical view at Leroy, small McLean county school which lost all nine games last season. "We can't do any worse than last year," Adams remarked.

Downstate's top prep football scorer in 1948 will be back in action again. He is Wally Steffen, swivel hipped Roxana halfback who counted 145 points in leading his club to a perfect season.

Danville and Mattoon loom as two of the more powerful clubs in the Big 12. Danville will have plenty of speed but little size in Britain Gets Assurances Of U. S. Help

Washington, Sept. 9—(AP)—Britain appeared assured today of limited American help in meeting its current dollar crisis. Long-range aid, however, seemed likely to be slow in developing and to require congressional action on several major proposals.

As the American-British-Canadian economic conference entered its third day, American officials were reported reasonably confident that measures now under study will block the drain on Britain's gold and dollar reserves by the end of the year.

On the long-term problem of boosting Britain's sales to this country to a point where the island nation can become self-sufficient there is, however, considerably less certainty. It is possible the conference may end next week without decisive agreement on specific steps to be taken in this field.

On specific measures of early aid to Britain, American negotiators in the conference have indicated full cooperation with the British in several ways: In trying to approve the marketing appeal of their goods in this country, in doing all possible to speed government purchasing of strategic materials, in helping British exporters iron out their difficulties with American customs, and in recognizing Britain's need to buy as much as she can in areas where dollars are not necessary.

A policy of encouraging export-import bank loans to India and other countries where an outpouring of dollars would help Britain is also being favorably considered by American officials.

Such steps, together with Britain's belt-tightening cutbacks in dollar-spending and its efforts to stimulate exports to this country and Canada, are expected to check the drain on the British reserves before they sink to the $1,000,000,000 mark.

Among long-term aids which have been suggested authorities say several would require congressional action and others almost certainly would. That means they would be months in the making even if the administration definitely decided to go through with them.

West's Gals Are Prettier

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 9—(AP)—Are girls from west of the Mississippi prettier than eastern or southern belles?

Preliminary results in the 1949 Miss America pageant seem to point that way. All of the preliminary winners announced in the talent and bathing suit divisions are from the wide open spaces with one exception—Miss Canada.

Tonight's third and final preliminary contest may give the westerners the upper hand in the finals tomorrow night, but no one will know until the 15 finalists are announced then.

Sylvia Canaday, an 18-year-old eyelet from Denver, "Miss Colorado," took first honors in the bathing suit preliminary last night. The night before "Miss Arizona," Jacqueline Mercer of Litchfield, and Jone Ann Pederson of Santa Rosa, "Miss California," tied for the classy chasmod award.

A demure Canadian miss, Margaret Lynne Munn of Toronto, pulled down the top spot in the talent division last night with a rendition of "Sempere Libera," from the opera "La Traviata." And another west-of-the-Mississippi beauty won in talent the night before—"Miss Minnesota," Gloria Yvonne Burkhart of Minneapolis.

But eastern and southern gals may make up for their losses in the personality and evening gown divisions, in which nightly preliminary winners are not announced.

Britain's Economic Crisis Was Inevitable, Says 'Mac'

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The cure for England's economic illness is a matter of guesswork, but there need be no doubt as to the basic cure of the malady, for it is deep-seated and had its inception long ago.

The fact is that Britain's suffering from an inherent weakness which was bound to result in an economic upheaval in due course.

What has happened is that two world wars have so speeded up events that this crisis has developed before its time. This knowledge won't be of much assistance to the doctors who now are holding the economic clinic in Washington, but it will have to be taken into consideration.

Suffice it is to hark back to the beginning of this century. Britain was at the peak of her imperial greatness, boasting an empire upon which the sun never set.

She Was Great
Her economic status was as solid as the rock of Gibraltar. The smoke from her factory chimneys wrote across the skies the proud claim that her manufactures encircled the world. Her banks extended their operations into far lands. Lloyds insurance covered the globe like a blanket. British capital invested heavily abroad, creating more 'invisible revenues' for England.

However, there was a weakness in this mighty structure. England in herself wasn't self-sufficient. Apart from coal she had little mineral wealth. She couldn't begin to feed herself, because she didn't have the acres, and so had to import a major portion of her foodstuffs. She lacked most of the raw materials for her manufactures.

How then did Britain achieve her industrial greatness? The answer: By the very simple expedient of importing raw materials from undeveloped countries, fabricating materials, and then selling the manufactured products back to those countries.

She sold steel to America and many other nations. British woolen goods were world famous. India's millions clothed themselves in cotton goods woven in Manchester from raw cotton bought in the United States and other cotton producing countries.

Matter of Time
This length of time this phenomenon could last depended, of course, on how long it took foreign countries to develop their own resources. There was no end in sight when World War I broke, and changed the picture.

Overnight Britain found herself so occupied with making war that she no longer could act as merchant to foreign countries. Backward nations which had been dependent on England for woolen and cotton products, among others, suddenly found themselves cut off. They looked about to see what was happening to them and found that they were snort on industries of their own. So they started in to remedy the defect and make themselves self-sufficient.

Thus British lost not only untold wealth as the result of war expenditures but her world markets started to slip away from her. The tendency continued until even India, greatest jewel in the imperial crown was manufacturing the bulk of the cotton goods to clothe her millions.

Then along came the Hitlerian catastrophe which reduced much of the world to a state of economic chaos. The nations involved have expended wealth they may never be able to replace—certainly not in our time. Britain has been hard hit.

This columnist isn't one of those who think England's greatness has run its course. With help from her friends she will weather the present economic hurricane.

Much of her empire has been transformed into a commonwealth of sovereign states. Mighty India has achieved its independence, and the more than 600 native princes, with their fabulous wealth, are disappearing into the pages of history for future generations to marvel over.

However, Britain still has great colonial possessions, many of which are potentially rich. She still has an empire on which the sun never sets and with development, it will represent a mighty force.

Vacationists Turn Coast Fire Fighters

King City, Calif., Sept. 9—(AP)—Forty vacationists, turned fire fighters when trapped at beautiful Tassa Jara Hot Springs resort, were safe today but still surrounded by uncontrolled flames.

The wind-blown fire last night periled inhabitants of the scenic mountain valley 20 miles west of here and destroyed a two-story stone hotel building and about 15 of the 35 cabins.

Jack Curran, U. S. fire control officer, said actor Phil Terry, owner of the resort, organized vacationists into a volunteer brigade to fight the flames. He said no one was hurt and all were calm. Origin of the fire was undetermined.

The vacationists may have to remain at the Hot Springs until late today. Curran said the kitchen had not burned and could be used to feed them and hundreds of others being brought to battle the flames.

The flames blackened some 1200 acres in the Los Padres national forest. The scene is between King City and the Pacific, about 100 miles south of San Francisco.

Truman Won't Back Down on Appointment

Washington, Sept. 9—(AP)—President Truman's refusal to withdraw an Iowa federal judgeship nomination was tabbed in the senate today as a new demonstration that the president can be as politically stubborn as they come.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he isn't going to call back from the senate his appointment of Carroll O. Switzer to be federal district judge in southern Iowa.

His announcement was unexpected in view of (1) Switzer's recent agreement to drop out because of the vigorous opposition to the nomination by Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) and (2) reports that the president had written Gillette saying he presumed Switzer's action had made the Iowa senator very happy.

Gillette wouldn't talk about the reported letter from the president. He did tell a reporter he thinks the president's decision to stick by the nomination is unfortunate.

It has been the general understanding among interested senators that the Switzer nomination—which Gillette had said was "intended to be a direct affront to me"—would be washed up with the withdrawal of the nomination and the submission to the White House of names of two men favored by Gillette.

The Iowa senator had recommended William F. Riley of Des Moines, former Iowa Bar Association president, and Ed Halbach of Clinton.

Debutante's Death on Ship, Accident

Boston, Sept. 9—(AP)—An investigation in the death of a Texas debutante was at an end today with a medical examiner's verdict that she was killed accidentally in a stairway fall aboard the liner Excalibur at sea.

Shortly after Dr. William J. Brickley announced his findings, the body of Adrienne Atwell, 20, of Dallas, was placed aboard a plane and accompanied home by her parents, Atty. and Mrs. Webster Atwell.

Robert M. Willard, 21, also of Dallas, who was injured in the stairway fall early last Saturday, was reported in "satisfactory" condition at Peter Bent Brigham hospital.

Miss Atwell died from a fractured skull and intracranial hemorrhage three days later. Willard suffered head injuries.

DEATH SENTENCE

Tavares, Fla., Sept. 9—(AP)—Circuit Judge T. G. Futch yesterday sentenced two Negroes to die in the electric chair for raping a young farm wife last July.

He condemned Samuel Shepherd and Walter Irvin, both 22, to death for the rape that stirred white night riders to terrorist activities in Lake county.

An all-white jury convicted the pair and Charles Greenlee, 16, last Saturday; but it recommended mercy for Greenlee. Judge Futch sentenced Greenlee to life imprisonment.

A fourth suspect, Ernest Thomas, was killed by a posse 10 days after the rape.

Mass Sayer's Victim Says Vet Should Get 'Fair Trial'

Camden, N. J., Sept. 9—(AP)—A 16-year-old boy who was wounded in Camden's River road massacre thanks Howard E. Unruh, Bible-reading artilleryman, should be given a "fair trial."

His left arm in a sling as a result of his brush with the 28-year-old accused slayer of 13 persons, Armond Harrie was released from Cooper hospital yesterday following treatment for a flesh wound.

Armond's mother and one other person also were wounded in the flurry of gunfire which brought death to five men, five women and three young boys last Tuesday.

"The guy is entitled to a fair trial, even in this case with so many dead," said Armond, who will be 17 years old tomorrow.

Although a neighbor of Unruh, Armond said "I didn't know him to speak to, really."

"Once in a while we'd say hello but never had a conversation," he added. "He never had a quarrel with us—never had a reason to."

Unruh's mother, Mrs. Freda Unruh, was told fully for the first time yesterday of the 20-minute shooting orgy last Tuesday.

She ranted when she learned of the killings. Her first words when revived were:

"Howard, my poor Howard. He didn't know what he was doing."

Mrs. Unruh said she was concerned about her son being taken to an asylum at Trenton. She said he had had a reason and that he wouldn't get enough handkerchiefs in the hospital.

Under Guard
Authorities are keeping Unruh under heavy guard in a bare, tiny isolation cell at Trenton state hospital for the insane.

He is awaiting the start of extensive medical and psychiatric tests, which may require as long as eight weeks.

Dr. Robert S. Garber, assistant director of the hospital, emphatically denied reports that he or any other psychiatrist had described Unruh as sane. Reports on the prisoner's mental condition will be submitted only "to the proper authorities at the proper time," Dr. Garber added.

Meanwhile, the grief-stricken families of ten victims prepared to bury their dead today.

However, relatives of Maurice Cohen, River road druggist who was slain together with his wife and mother, postponed their funerals until Monday in the hope that the dead couple's elder son, Leonard, would arrive here from Tokyo in time. The army private is coming here by plane.
